

Sinclair Broadcasting uses the public airways free of charge; it is planning to force it's stations to air an anti-Kerry propaganda peice just two weeks before the election. This looks to me like a breach of their licensing rights. I think it's time to you people start taking a more serious look at media control of public airways in this country. The last time a small group of people controlled access to information in this manner, it was called Nazi Germany.

In America everyone should have fair and equal access to the airways. If Sinclair can bump regular programming to air an anti-Kerry peice, they should have to give equal time to an anti-Bush peice.

Thank you.
